

Market - Ticker (Futures contract month)	Weekly Closing Price	Price / % change from last week	Short-term trend	Long-term trend	Short-term price target	Long-term price target	Position Bias Aggressive/ Passive
EURUSD - EC (Sep '17)	1.1892	+0.0116/ +0.98%	→↑	↑	1.2094, 1.2166	-	long / long
GBPUSD - BP (Sep '17)	1.2887	-0.0001/ -0.01%	↓	↑	1.2787, 1.2737	-	short / -
USDJPY - JY (Sep '17)	0.9162	-0.0004/ -0.04%	↑	→↓	-	-	- / -
Crude WTI - CL (Oct'17)	47.87	-0.79/ -1.62%	→↑	↓	-	-	- / -
S&P500 - ES (Sep '17)	2442.50	+15.75/ +0.65%	↓	↑	-	-	- / -
Gold - GC (Dec'17)	1297.9	+6.30 / +0.49%	↑	→↓	-	-	- / -
30-year Bond - ZB (Sep'17)	156 17/32	+ 22/32/ +0.44%	↑	→↓	156-25	159-3	long / -

Bold: Price target achieved on close
Italic: Price target hit but not on close

EURUSD: Last week we wrote: “The Euro is catching its breath. It would be silly at this stage to bet against the uptrend resuming.” We think the next leg up has begun. Manage risk carefully.

GBPUSD: Sterling continues hanging on from a thread. This next week is crucial. While the weight of the evidence points to lower prices, if the current levels hold, then we could have a nice rally from here. Time will tell.

USDJPY: Last week we said we were going to sit it out one more week. This week is no different. No position is a position. We cannot force it if the conditions are simply not there and the probabilities are no better than a simple coin toss.

Crude WTI: Oil remains tricky. We have nothing new to say.

S&P500: We’ve been expecting a sell-off as the market should be working off its overbought condition. This simply has not happened when we only look at the amount of points we’ve corrected so far. However, my model and quantitative indicators now show that we’re at the final part of the “sell-off” and not far away from a rather strong rally. I’m going to recommend abstaining from this market up to two more weeks and see what happens. With Labour Day coming up next weekend, trading activity usually dwindles during the latter parts of the week and there is usually a positive bias during the days leading up to the break.

Gold: We continue to recommend abstaining from the gold market.

30-year bond: Last week we wrote: “Aggressive accounts can think about the long side. The weight of the evidence is definitely leaning in favour of the bulls and if one factors in potential inflows/rally from an impending equity sell-off, then the short-term bullish case is compelling enough.” While there’s clearly been no sell-off so far, bonds keep levitating higher indicating that low rates will be with us for a tad longer.

Constantine Theodossiou
ct@newcoll.com

New College Capital Ltd
39-40 St. James’s Place
London SW1A 1NS
Tel + 44 20 7495 8720
Fax + 44 20 7495 8668

www.newcoll.com

This document is issued by, and the property of, New College Capital Ltd (“New College”) which is authorised and regulated in the UK by the Financial Conduct Authority (“FCA”) under reference 430986.

The information contained herein is current at the date of publication, but is subject to change without notice. The information, including any third party data is published in good faith and New College believes that the information is accurate at the time of publication but no representation or warranty, express or implied, is made by New College as to its accuracy or completeness and it should not be relied on as such. New College has expressed its own views and opinions, and these may change without notice. This document is not directed at you if New College is prohibited by any law of any jurisdiction from making the contents available to you and is not intended for any use that would be contrary to local law or regulation. None of the information is intended to constitute any offer to sell or an invitation or solicitation of an offer to buy any product or service by New College and must not be relied upon in connection with any investment decision. Products or services mentioned are subject to legal and regulatory requirements in applicable jurisdictions and may not be available in all jurisdictions. Accordingly persons are required to inform themselves of and observe any such restrictions. Nothing in this website should be construed as investment, tax, legal or other advice.

Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. The value of investments and the income of any financial instruments mentioned may fall as well as rise, and investors may get back less than the amount originally invested. Fluctuations in exchange rates may have a positive or an adverse effect on the value of foreign-currency denominated securities and financial instruments. Certain investments involve an above-average degree of risk and should be seen as long-term in nature. The investment products and services described in the website may have tax consequences. Any tax reliefs referred to are those currently available and their value depends on the circumstances of the individual investor. You acknowledge that levels and bases of taxation may change, and that New College does not provide tax advice. You should consult your own tax advisor in order to understand the tax consequences of the products and services described in the website.

It is the responsibility of the individual user to consider his or her legal and regulatory position in the relevant jurisdiction, the risks associated with trading such products and to ensure that the use of the content and the subsequent making of any investment does not contravene any such restrictions or applicable laws and regulations of any jurisdiction. Please seek the advice of professionals, as appropriate, regarding the evaluation of any specific security, index, report, opinion, advice or other content. This does not exclude or restrict any duty or liability that New College has to its professional clients under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (as amended from time to time) or any other regulatory system under the laws of applicable jurisdictions.

New College shall therefore have no liability, save for any liability that New College may have under the UK Financial Services and Markets Act 2000, for any loss or damage arising out of the use or reliance on the information provided including without limitation, any loss of profit or any other damage, direct or consequential.